Drinking set no.2 - "Hofburg" with Habsburg crest

design: Josef Lobmeyr sen., 1835

The "Hofburg" service was created by Lobmeyr for the Imperial Court of Vienna in 1835. The service is on view in the palace as part of the Imperial Collection and is still used for official state receptions. Hand-cut and polished, massive and extravagant in style, it remains one of the greatest royal crystal services ever produced.

design: Ludwig Lobmeyr, 1856

With its timeless appeal, the muslin glass set of 1856 is our most successful. It belongs to a body of about one hundred sets designed by Ludwig Lobmeyr himself. The clear shape and fine appearance make it a true classic.

In its simplicity and functionality, the series is designated as the origin of the modern wine glass in museum collections and publications.

design: Josef Hoffmann, 1917

The perfectly flowing contours of these original Josef Hoffmann shapes make this muslin glass series a true classic. The elegantly balanced stemware was designed by Hoffmann for Lobmeyr as early as 1917. The material, very fine muslin glass – mouth-blown in wooden moulds – provides perfect elegance.

MARS Glas Edition

design: different designers, 2012

Initiated by the MAK ART SOCIETY (MARS), thirteen artists of our time interpreted the water tumbler of the Drinking Set No. 248 by Adolf Loos. The MARS Glas Edition shows variations of approaching the masterpiece. Oscillating between veneration and experiment, it is the view through the artists' eyes that forms the common theme. More or less radically, it transforms the iconic piece into a contemporary statement. Each glass speaks for itself. Nevertheless, the synopsis is more than the sum of its parts, just like an art collection en miniature.

Drinking set no.248 "Sagmeister on Loos"

design: Stefan Sagmeister, 2011/ 2013

In his last letter to Lobmeyr, dated 1931, Adolf Loos asked to eventually replace his original geometric patterns with "butterflies, small animals, and the nude human form". For the 80th anniversary of Loos' legendary No. 248 bar set, designers Stefan Sagmeister and Jessica Walsh have expanded this concept to include illustrations of the Seven Deadly Sins and the Seven Heavenly Virtues on the bottom of the glasses. As you finish your glass of red wine, perhaps it will come as a little pleasant surprise to see the images reveal themselves at the bottom. 2013 the images have been completely revised.

design: Hans Harald Rath, 1952

Hans Harald Rath designed the "Alpha" set in 1952. Thanks to their compact, balanced features the glasses lie beautifully in the hand. The shape was inspired by a Baroque copper cup from the collections of the MAK Vienna, itself influenced by Islamic works.

Reflecting the lifestyle of the 50ies, the glasses are fully stackable. Finest muslin glass, mouth-blown into wooden forms, provides for their elegance.

In 1964 the series was awarded the German National Design Prize "Gute Form". Today some of the shapes are available in six light colours, garnet red and black.

Drinking set no.281 - "grip"

design: Marco Dessi, 2009

The set, comprising of a tumbler and a decanter, was designed by Marco Dessí, an Italian designer living in Vienna. The decanter is inspired by Italian design classics. It can be used for wine and water alike, while the tumbler works perfectly well for beer or Scotch, especially in the cut version.

Dessí demonstrates how a rather austere design can come to life when executed by skilled craftsmen. A specially developed lamella cut playfully hints at technical aesthetics and functionality. An ornament at the base prevents from visible scratches. Equally important is the haptic pleasure when drinking from the glass – literally the "grip".

design: Mark Braun, 2010

The carafe was originally designed for VIENNA DESIGN WEEK 2010 as part of a series on Austrian water: The contours of 21 Austrian rivers, lakes and glaciers were engraved into its surface. In 2011, the project was expanded and presented at the "Salone" in Milan.

It is about celebrating the value of the simple and the natural, like drinking water or crafted things. A slightly conical light tumbler has been added to the set.

Mark Braun has been running his own design studio in Berlin since 2006. "I want to design things that seem familiar to people, although they are new", he explains his approach towards design.

Drinking set no.284 „Alphabet“

design: Studio Formafantasma (Andrea Trimarchi, Simone Farresin), 2014

The Alphabet collection is composed of 12 wine and water glasses and a decanter. The design highlights the pleasure of diversity within a group, while toying with the rules of table setting.

The prototypes of the series were designed in 2013 for the Geymüllerschloß Dining Room as part of The Stranger Within, a site-specific installation commissioned by the MAK Museum in Vienna. Each of the set's 12 pieces is engraved with a singular pattern. In reference to the Lobmeyr archives and the decor of the shop, the design suggests a different way of arranging the pieces on a table. Like a crystal dome covering a still-life, the upside-down wine tumbler can be placed inside the water tumbler, allowing their unique ornamentations to be re-combined time and time again – a collection of miniature “miracle worlds”. Two slender, golden lines indicate the positioning of a perfect arrangement.

Stählemühle

design: Mark Braun, Christoph Keller, 2013

Designer Mark Braun and master distiller Christoph Keller from the Stählemühle fruit distillery have developed a completely new type of schnapps glass – one without a stem. One's hand wraps around the corpus – the shape abstracted from a distilling flask – warming the spirits to the perfect temperature. Gentle swirling provides aeration. The strikingly cambered floor of the glass – reminiscent of traditional Venetian glassware – enlarges the surface area laced by the drink, thus ensuring the desired reaction with oxygen. Escaping aromas stream up through the gently bowed chimney of the glass and are taken up by the nose in full stream before the first sip glides out from the elegant sweep of the goblet. Delicate, mouth-blown muslin glass creates an incomparably tantalizing contact between lips and drink.

Lily series - Espresso and Tea cup

design: KIM+HEEP, 2012/ 2013

Books were written on the colour of tea – so why hide it? The Middle East has a long tradition of using glass vessels for tea; Lobmeyr produced numerous tea and punch mugs in the 19th century. We knew before that our thin, lead-free crystal can bear mechanical strain. KIM+HEEP proved in impressive tests, that it is also extremely resistant to changes in temperature.

The design team developed a well-balanced and functional shape that blends harmoniously into Josef Hoffmann's "Patrician" series. A wonderful set to refine the moment of a joyful sip!

2013 the series has been completed by an Espresso cup. In reminiscence to oriental coffee cups our chandelier workshop creates a heavy gilt brass saucer.

Taking Care

design: Sebastian Herkner, 2017

Herkner made use of the characteristics of the glass, its possibility of transparency and possibility of sophistication to protect precious content. By putting something personal even with no actual value on the little silvered brass tray at the bottom of the jar like a precious stone, the object wants us to reflect on what is actually important and even necessary. Through the special caring and the high manufacturing, we can learn to respect those personal treasures.

The jars consist of a massive base and a fine, exactly fitting lid. Each piece is hand-blown, hand-cut and polished.

A series of five objects, containing seeds from crop wild relative plants endangered by climate change (wheat, peanut, cowpea, potato, oat), has been part of the Wallpaper* Handmade project 2017.

Gletscher series

design: Sebastian Menschhorn, 2005

A heavy mouth-blown piece of crystal is cut until no curve remains. In contrast to the soft and round inner shape a crude and squared outside is created, providing shelter for the tender inside. The sculptural character is enforced by the unpolished cuts.

Thom series

design: Sebastian Menschhorn, 2010

The mouth-blown, hand-cut and polished glass objects look like shaped in a lathe. Thom means "magnificent" in the language of the Khmer. In Europe, Thom can also be a person's name. The roots of this series lie in both cultural spheres – Europe and Asia. The temples of Angkor, over a thousand years old, have window grates with sculptured stone pillars; Josef Hoffmann used quite similar horizontally grooved structures in his architecture. Sebastian Menschhorn arranges the grooves irregularly and transforms architectural elements into hollow vessels. In spite of their transparency, the objects maintain archaic strength.

Eckhart series

design: Sebastian Menschhorn, 2013

Take round and make it square. The glass is faceted. Only at a single point is the rounded raw glass kept as it was. This causes the fundamental opposition of angled and round, of raw and refined, to emerge. The series is heavy and archaic. It has practical uses, but can also be left unused to be seen as a sculpture.

Sebastian Menschhorn takes his profound knowledge of cultural and art history and applies it to translating ornaments, forms, and functions into contemporary consumer items and graphic designs. The result is fresh yet timeless designs rooted in history, that tell new stories.

STILL series

Design: Formafantasma, 2014

What are the true luxury goods of today? For us, it's not glitter, gold, or heavy cut crystal vases. People of today need carefully designed and well-crafted objects. Pure drinking water is a treasure and this drinking set – STILL – reminds us to cherish and enjoy our world's most important resource.

For this project, Lobmeyr asked for a precious object to be created using a copper wheel engraving. Formafantasma didn't come back with a single piece, but instead with a series that tells an evocative story.

Each piece of crystal is engraved with two different patterns inspired by the production process itself. One is a contemporary microscopic view of river bacteria; the other a 19th-century illustration of an oceanic organism with a skeleton of silica, the main element of glass.

A copper ladle can be used to scoop the water from the larger vessel into a filter that can be set atop the medium-sized vessel. The filter can then be stored upon the large vessel while the ladle is used to scoop the purified water into the crystal or copper tumblers. A jug can be used for when smaller quantities are needed.

CrystalJellies

Design: Talia Radford, 2015

Talia Radford's JellySeries are both jewellery and tool - an analogue photo-filter. CrystalJellies is a special Lobmeyr edition inspired by chandelier pendants, taking advantage of glass-cutting techniques to create a kaleidoscopic wearable looking glass. Each of the four pieces in the collection utilize different cutting techniques, catering for a range of styles and taste and a myriad of psychedelic experiences. The lense is made from leadfree crystal, hand cut and hand polished. Frame and Wchain are 925 silver.

ELIN Tumblers small - Composers

design: Paul Wieser

Vienna – city of music. We adore composers! A good memento and a wonderful present are the Composer's tumblers of Lobmeyr. They are engraved in classic Biedermeier style on unostentatious tumblers. It takes a whole day for our craftsmen to accomplish a single tumbler in our workshops.

The range comprises:

Wolfgang A. Mozart, Joseph Haydn, Ludwig v. Beethoven, Franz Schubert, Johann Strauss, Richard Wagner, Johannes Brahms, Frédéric Chopin, Giuseppe Verdi, Peter Tchaikovsky, Friedrich Liszt, Johann Sebastian Bach, Herbert v. Karajan, Vincenzo Bellini, Gustav Mahler, Giacomo Puccini, Leonard Bernstein.

Tumbler Series "Promenade"

design: Leonid Rath, 2009

Around 1800 the publisher Artaria edited a series of "Viennese Vedute". For over 200 years original etchings or copies decorated the most important whereabouts of the Viennese society. Now they slowly disappear from the walls. The pictures show famous places and sights of the city. What might not be visible at first sight are the numerous, quite humorously depicted people wandering along.

The figures are hand-painted in great detail using fine enamel technique. The tumbler has a classic shape as popular in the Biedermeier period.

Flower Vase BV13

design: Oswald Haerdtl, 1927

The Lobmeyr archives include a set of sketches and studies by Oswald Haerdtl for this shape in different sizes. Today the smallest (d=112mm), the medium size (d=227mm) and the largest (d=370mm) are in production. Especially the largest version works well for dry Japanese Ikebana arrangements.

Flower Vase BV20

design: Stefan Rath, ca. 1928

This flower vase was designed by Stefan Rath as a result of his intensive collaboration with artists from the Wiener Werkstätte. The gradient curve of the exterior surface bestows lightness and elegance. The vase, mouth-blown from thin crystal glass is well suited for engravings, as shown here with a delicate pearl border.

Flower vase BV71 – „calabash vases“

design: Sebastian Menschhorn, 2016

The calabash gourd is used as vessel for ages and ages. The extraordinary shape inspired porcelain vases in Baroque times. Menschhorn plays with that silhouette and deforms them in two steps. As a result of this process we are offering three very functional and special vase shapes. They appeal as a group, but also as a single piece. The vases are available in subtle colours amethyst, rosalin and smoke.

"Altdorfer Jagd"

A wonderful Lobmeyr hunting scene, as an example of precious copper wheel engraved masterpiece. Albrecht Altdorfer (1480-1538) has been one of the Masters of the Renaissance besides Cranach and Dürer. Stefan Rath selected the scene from one of his works.

In over 160 hours of work a master engraver creates a piece like that, using several different stone and copper wheels for all the details. There is no other technique to achieve this level of plasticity and liveliness.

Pitcher No.7887 from the Arabian Series

Design: Machytka & Schmoranz, 1877

As early as 1848/49, Ludwig Lobmeyr delivered chandeliers to the palace of the Khedive in Cairo. Starting in the 1870s, a significant collection of valuable glass objects was created, mainly in collaboration with architects and Orient experts Franz and Gustav Schmoranz. Delightful, abstract patterns in colorful enamel painting and gold were applied to the hand-blown, cut vases and plates.

In commemoration of an exhibition at the „Museum of Islamic Civilisation“ in Sharjah/UAE 2015, a pitcher from the "Arabian Series" has been put back into production. The design is by Machytka & Schmoranz in the year 1877. Inspired by the form of an early Islamic metal pitcher, the decoration is a collage of different Oriental patterns. It takes Lobmeyr's painter 40 hours and five firings to finish the detailed enamel painting on the glass. The new pitcher is barely discernable from the original and will bring its owners delight for just as long.

Beauty mark “Crack”

design: Murray Moss, 2017

“Imperfection is beauty, madness is genius, and it's better to be absolutely ridiculous than absolutely boring.” - Marilyn Monroe

“To me, these glasses wear their 'imperfections' like a beautiful 18th century woman wore a 'beauty mark'. To keep that analogy 'current', would you consider to call this series 'Marilyn', after Marilyn Monroe? ... Making glass is in itself a 'violent' action resulting in a fragile object.” - Murray Moss

The décor has been developed for Storefront of Architecture and Design as a limited edition of 24 sets of four tumblers of the Commodore series.

They are now available on all Lobmeyr shapes except the one mentioned above.

We suggest mixing some “broken” glasses into a perfect dining set. The pure shape of drinking set no.4 seems appropriate.
